.. HISTORY OF KEY LARGO ..

The island of Key Largo is about 30 miles long. The first hint of a community of Key Largo was an 1870 post office named Cayo Largo in the present-day Rock Harbor area (mm 95 to 100). The 1870 census population of the island of Key Largo was 60. The 1948 movie "Key Largo, gave the name Key Largo instant popularity. Local businessmen wanted to capitalize on the popularity of Key Largo, but there was not even a Key Largo mailing address. In 1952, the name of the Rock Harbor Post Office was changed to the Key Largo Post Office. It was then that the name of Key Largo as a community, not as an island, was resurrected.

Today's Key Largo spans about 24 miles from Ocean Reef to Tavernier. Key Largo is known as the Dive Capital of the World, with the magnificent natural reefs, the sunken ships, the tremendous variety of marine life not to mention the clarity of the waters. Key Largo is sandwiched between the watery wilderness of the Everglades National Park and the fish-covered coral formations of North America's only living coral barrier reef. It is also a popular sport fishing as well as kayak destination. 2025 population is 12,447.

Family Owned and Operated

The Dreaver Family opened the Key Largo Conch House in 2004. After 20 years of running the restaurant, Ted and Laura retired and passed the business on to their daughter, Stephanie and her husband, Adrian. The restaurant remains in the family, with the next generation now at the helm! We are proud to have grandchildren and the children of longtime employees working in the restaurant as well.

We've been featured on Travel Channel's Man v Food, Food Network, Emeril's Florida, Cooking Channel, and many more. We hope you enjoy your meal with us and feel like part of our family!
