FISH TYPES

CONCH

+ Pronounced "konk" from the Greek meaning shell. A conch is a marine mollusk with a famous spiraled shell and edible flesh. Second in popularity only to escargot. Conch is protected in the Florida Keys.

MAHI-MAHI

Pronounced: MAH-hee MAH-hee.

+ is named the dolphin fish, but not to be confused with the mammal dolphin. This fish was renamed Mahi-Mahi by the Hawaiians so it would not be confused with the other dolphin. This fish is typically found in tropical and subtropical waters. White fish firm and mild in taste

HOGFISH

+ is characterized by a large, laterally compressed body shape. It possesses a very elongated snout which it uses to search for crustaceans buried in the sediment. This very long "pig-like" snout and its rooting behavior give the hogfish its name. This white, flakey, fish is considered a delicacy.

SNAPPER

+ is an abundant species of snapper native to the western Atlantic Ocean including the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean. This species is mostly found around coral reefs. White fish, flakey and light in taste
